Chopstix Chinese Takeout, of Teaneck, will host a holiday party this Thursday December 14, 2000. Chopstix has invited local merchants and politicians to attend but the most important guests will be those from the Tomorrows Children Fund. TCF is a non-profit organization that works with Children who have cancer. The celebration will feature a full buffet of Chinese, Tex-Mex and American food as well as comedians, magicians and balloon artists all of which has been donated. The comedians, Maury Fogel, Doc Allen and Johnny Watson, have been provided free of charge by Davin of Side Splitting productions, a Hackensack based productions company. The comedy troupe has produced shows and preformed for patients of Sloan Kettering memorial Hospital. In addition to the comedy routine, Larry Roberts, a Kids Comedy Magician, will be creating balloon art and performing magic tricks for the children as well.

"Tomorrow's Children has always held a special place in my heart," Said Elie Y. Katz, Teaneck Council member and co-owner of Chopstix and Grill Street. "We have been looking for the right event to bring some joy to otherwise preoccupied world."

"Chopstix and Grill street have always donated to the greater community," Said Uri Herzog, co-owner of Chopstix-and Grill Street. "This is just another example of our commitment to great organizations like Tomorrow's Children"
